

NDT methods, regulation & requirements (EN 4179)

This course is designed to provide information on the application and implementation of NDT techniques according to the guidance of international standards. The course is tailored for Maintenance and Design Organizations and addresses the issues of administration and management of training and recurrent trainings to organization, management and personnel.